On October 6, 1963, she was at her home preparing six-weeks tests, as she is a teacher at the Cedar Hill High School. Sometime between 11:00 and 1:00 P.M., on October 6, 1963, she heard someone firing a high caliber rifle in her pasture. She went to her kitchen window, and through the window two or three men were seen in her pasture. They have cattle in this pasture, and she was concerned that the persons might wound or kill some of the cattle. Her husband also was working in a field not too far from where the shooting was taking place. She got into her car and drove to where the men were. Two men were standing by a car, which was a 1957 black and white Chevrolet bearing Texas license. The third man was standing some distance away in the field with a rifle. She could not describe this rifle and did not know if it had a scope on it or not. She asked one of the men by the car if they had permission to hunt or shoot on the property. This man asked what reason she had to ask such a question. She then told the man the property belonged to her, and since they had some cattle in the pasture she was afraid they might shoot them. This made the man with the rifle angry, and he walked back toward the car and made several nasty remarks which she cannot recall. At this time, the man by the car she had been talking to told the man with the rifle to keep quiet. The man by the car then told her he could understand her situation. She then asked them that she was leaving and if they did not leave she would call the police. She took the license number of the car and left; these three men left, and she did not call the police. After a check of the cattle revealed none of them had been shot, she threw away the license number. She cannot recall any part of this number.

On October 5, 1959, she was at her home preparing six-weeks tests, as she is a teacher at the Cedar Hill High School. Sometime between 11:00 and 1:00 P.M., on October 6, 1963, she heard someone firing a high caliber rifle in her pasture. She went to her kitchen window, and through the window two or three men were seen in her pasture. They have cattle in this pasture, and she was concerned that the persons might wound or kill some of the cattle. Her husband also was working in a field not too far from where the shooting was taking place. She got into her car and drove to where the men were. Two men were standing by a car, which was a 1957 black and white Chevrolet bearing Texas license. The third man was standing some distance away in the field with a rifle. She could not describe this rifle and did not know if it had a scope on it or not. She asked one of the men by the car if they had permission to hunt or shoot on the property. This man asked what reason she had to ask such a question. She then told the man the property belonged to her, and since they had some cattle in the pasture she was afraid they might shoot them. This made the man with the rifle angry, and he walked back toward the car and made several nasty remarks which she cannot recall. At this time, the man by the car she had been talking to told the man with the rifle to keep quiet. The man by the car then told her he could understand her situation. She then asked them that she was leaving and if they did not leave she would call the police. She took the license number of the car and left; these three men left, and she did not call the police. After a check of the cattle revealed none of them had been shot, she threw away the license number. She cannot recall any part of this number.

COMMISSION EXHIBIT NO. 2944

COMMISSION EXHIBIT NO. 2945